

babysitting...

When a kid calls and asks if they can come and play, and then the mother of said kid takes off and goes who knows where and is gone for nearly 5 hours... and the kid was ready to go home after two hours, and the kid has been calling mom like clock work and keeps being told I'll be there in five minutes... when I am the mom of the kid that got visited, doesn't that make me a babysitter??? I'm about ready to turn this woman into the authorities... really dang close....